Compton Goes To Duplessis

COKSVILLE, Que. (CP) — C. D. French, Premier Duplessis' Union National candidate, won a clear-cut victory over his Liberal and Bloc Populaire opponents in Wednesday's Quebec by-election in the eastern township constituency of Compton. It was a gain from the Liberal party.

On the basis of unofficial returns in 58 of 62 polls, Mr. French received 5,734 votes, leading his Liberal opponent, W. S. Labere, by about 2,000 votes. Mr. Labere's total for 58 polls was 3,311 and that for Alain Quintin, Bloc Populaire 3.

Mr. French, a farmer, succeeds W. J. Duffy, Liberal who died in January.

After Wednesday's election, the party standing in the 91-seat Quebec legislature is Union National 59; Liberal 36; Bloc Populaire 3; Independent 2.

By Torch Anderson

OTTAWA — Liberal politicians in Ottawa profess no great concern over the by-election victory of Premier Duplessis' candidate in the Compton constituency of Quebec.

The victory of Duplessis' Union National in a seat formerly held by Godbout's Liberals brought from spokesmen of the government a chorus of: "Compton was fought on the issue of good roads and schools and not on provincial autonomy."

Jews Release British Officers

YERUSALEM (CP) — Three British officers held hostage for 17 days by Irgun Zvai Leumi, secret Jewish military organization, were freed this morning. One of the three was Capt. G. C. Warburton.

Irgun Zvai Leumi earlier had promised to release the three "as soon as possible" in return for the commutation of the death sentence imposed on two Jewish fighters in the Medical Internment camp at Atlit.

The British army disclosed that the 2,718 Jews held released from the Ramat Yishai camp in Atlit and said others would be freed later.

Those released were mostly residents of Tel Aviv who were arrested along with thousands suspected of connection with underground resistance and held for investigation.

British military authorities, meanwhile, said the disclosure made additional cache assumptions in an underground arsenal in the Jewish village of Mesheq Yagur.

LONDON (CP) — The colonial office categorically denied Wednesday that any Jews arrested in Palestine had been mistreated.

Answering charges by the London office of the Jewish Agency for Palestine that British forces were used by Palestine police against Jews in the Atlit detention camp near Haifa, the colonial office said:

"There is no foundation whatsoever for the allegation that third degree treatment, beating or torture has been inflicted on any detainees."

Three thousand British Jews packed the streets of Tel Aviv into the street outside St. Pancras town hall Wednesday to hear Dr. Isaac Herzog, chief rabbi of Palestine, say: "What is your God? What is your honor? Where are your great men of vision, and what has happened to British justice?"

Colonel Herbert Hall disclosed in the commons Wednesday that 142 Arabs and one Jew had been put to death for carrying arms in Palestine since Nov. 11, 1947.

Strikers Reject Settlement Plan

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Three thousand members of the International Union of the Domtar Rubber Workers of America (C.I.O.) have rejected the settlement proposal contained in the report of Judge Cameron, government-appointed commissioner, released Thursday.

The three locals represent the workers of the Domtar, the largest company's three plants here. Union members at the Kitchener plant voted to postpone the decision on Cameron's report because most of that local's members are on holiday.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A worker helping dismantle the South Burrard shipyards Wednesday discovered seven blasting powder sticks, a fuse and a detonator in a pocketbook. A company official said the material might have been placed there during the attempt to blow up the yard.

The official said he believed the powder was intended to wreck two 10,000-ton freighters and the yard walls.

Say Slain Nazi Was "Traitor"

MOSCOW (CP) — Testimony that Capt. Karl Lehmann, German prisoner-of-war, was considered a traitor and a spy and suspected of being the leader of the internal resistance in the Medical Internment camp at Atlit, was given at the trial of Sgt. Walter Wolf, one of four prisoners charged with the murder of Lehmann.

Wolf, 27, was sentenced to death for the killing of Capt. Karl Lehmann, German prisoner-of-war, was considered a traitor and a spy and suspected of being the leader of the internal resistance in the Medical Internment camp at Atlit, was given at the trial of Sgt. Walter Wolf, one of four prisoners charged with the murder of Lehmann.

But the feeling that congress would agree upon some kind of new price control legislation gained momentum.

Castile Prices Level Off

Wednesday's most significant development along the cost-of-living front was the leveling off of prices paid for cattle, a Wall street dollar with the smallest turnover of all commodities, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. In Washington, the average market prices of 28 basic commodities had risen eight percent since the last time the index was taken, but such action was limited to the minister of justice or provincial attorney-general.

Ships "sabotages" instigated by combines fighting government action against them, and easy to arrange, could bring about a situation much more difficult if not impossible.

Award Contract Grimshaw Road

By Torch Anderson

OTTAWA — Road building equipment was on its way north Thursday as the department of mines and resources prepared to award contracts for the Yellowknife road which will tap the Yellowknife district in the Northwest Territories. Work is due to start in August.

The government has been asked to build the portion of the road between the eastern boundary of the Yellowknife district and Yellowknife. The contract was awarded to Bond Construction Company, Ltd. of Regina, for $1,240,000. The road is to be completed by Dec. 31, 1947. It is understood that the Alberta portion of the road, to dominion government contributes 20 per cent, is under construction.

The Ontario portion of the road is 81 miles long.

Workers Given 4-Day Holiday

NEW YORK (CP) — The United States passed through into the month of June.

To many demobilized servicemen, Independence Day marked the first real family vacation they had ended.

To workers generally, it marked the opening of a four-day holiday as most business firms closed from Thursday through Sunday.

One of the odd occurrences with Capt. Wolf, Capt. Neilson, Ont., in whom the accused had said that he had been killed by a German soldier, was that his own civilians certain German officers had declared that it was impossible for a man who had broken out of Germany with crowds shouting, "Down with Hitler."

In answer to a question by G. E. A. Rice, defence counsel, as to why not Lehmann, when in England had been killed by a German soldier to obtain information from them and pass this to British authorities, a fourth witness said that he had been told that Lehmann was a "traitor."

Another unidentified witness, former member of the German navy, said that one night about two months before the hearing, Lehmann had been sitting with him and a number of others, including a number of Germans, in a room at the hotel where he had been staying.

Lehmann had made the remark that, "Whenever I see the face of a German," he said, "I see a rope around my neck."

Witnesses who had been serving in the Canadian forces said that Lehmann had been captured by the Germans and was held in a British prison camp near Haifa.

British authorities, meanwhile, said that the accused had been captured by the Germans and was held in a British prison camp near Haifa.

See Beef Famine From New Order

TORONTO (CP) — An anonymous source in Ottawa said that a price of from one to two cents a pound would accompany reimposition of wholesale ceiling prices on top-quality beef, 20 cents a pound.

Meat dealers conflicting views as to price of top-grade beef.

Fear that another beef famine, such as the one that recently plagued the Toronto area, would result, caused by reimposition of wholesale ceiling prices on top-quality beef, 20 cents a pound.

The attorney general, Mr. Truman told congress, "advised me that the people here need to interfere with the rights of unions in carrying out their legitimate objectives."

The weatherman, Mr. H. H. McCreary, manager of the elevator, said he had no idea what the price of wheat would be.

He said: "The price of wheat is now $1.00 a bushel, or both. Bitterly opposed to the proposal to permit where retailers were being 'squeezed' out of their margin of profit."

These are optimistic in some quarters, however.

An informed source said the new legislation would create a squeeze on retailers which resulted from the fact they must sell to the public at a fixed ceiling. The free-wheeling price system, he said, had been offered annually by Rep. Sam House (Dem., Ala.) since 1942.

U.S. Criticism Over Palestine Policy Causes Annoyance to Britons

U.S. Comment Said Senseless; British Lives are Sacrificed

Music Headway Made in West

TORONTO, (CP)—Eva Clare, director of music at the University of Manitoba, Wednesday told the convention of Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' associations that the study of music was no longer totally dependent for scholarship and awards.

She urged uniformity throughout Canada in the granting of music degrees pointing out that some 50 applications of letters in Canada describing musical diplomas and to meet this situation better, she said, there was a challenge to the music teaching profession."

Danish Suspect Freed In Error

NEW YORK (INNA) — Birn Bjornsson Bjornsson, son of Iceland's president, Sveinn Bjornsson, who allegedly fought with Hitler's side, was released from Swiss later broadcast anti-Axis propaganda to Iceland, he has been released "by mistake" from the Detention Center, which was awaiting trial for high treason.

Bjornsson was freed by a police official, who claimed to have taken a voice on the telephone giving him the illegal release order for that his superior believed the man had been captured to Sweden and thence to Iceland. At-toned of Stockholm reports.

The man, who is said to have been causing considerable concern to the Danish foreign ministry. The government has said he had a "feud" toward his sovereign, Christian X, who was king of Iceland as well as Denmark.

In 1939, 300 ships were shipped into the colony today there is little doubt that the Arabs would oppose the immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine is equally puzzling. The report said, "The Arabs are not an overriding consideration. The principal consideration is maintenance of order."

President Truman's reported statement that America's tanks and transport facilities for the immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine is equally puzzling.

The names and services performed by these men, most of them "new Americans," are not clear to me.

It is generally agreed that the war would be at the cost of British lives alone? If America is anxious to sponsor immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine, it is the sole or joint responsibility of security while immigrants are taking place and afterwards, that would be in the British view, more to the point.

Just One Recommendation

The immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine is the first of many recommendations on Palestine policy made by the Joint Anglo-American Commission. Soviet Russia is being studied separately by both American and British governments. Truman's unilateral acceptance of one plan without consulting the others has astounded British government circles.

British has welcomed the American intervention. Palestine is being used to the joint negotiations on the basis of the British policy.

For this hazardous work, the Canadian paid were paid by the government in the same rate as soldiers in the army. When Canadian benefits depend on rank, they are not given to the members of the commission.

Committee members told very little about the work of these gallant men quickly apprised themselves that they wished these men had received something considerably better than sergeant pay.

Lots of Coal In U.K. Reserve

LONDON (Reuters) — Beneath the soil of the United Kingdom lie 20,000,000,000 tons of coal, enough to supply the country's needs in full employment until July 1, 2040.

This is disclosed in an appraisal of coal reserves and production issued by the department of scientific and industrial research, which says that "as far as the classification of reserves is concerned, the new scheme will last for 100 years and for a further 75 years clearly."

The report says the general consideration is that the new scheme will be adequate to meet the demands barring any revolutionary changes."

One-Sided Comments

It is astonishing to Britons that all the coal in the United States — accusations of British harshness, demands for boycott of British-American financial arrangements to terminate.

Why is it wondered, has been repeated by many, that the war veterans' affairs committee has more significance to a country whose only intention is to keep order in the world than the greatest measure of fairness to both Jewish and Arab friends there?

Dismiss Appeal C.C.F. Members

TORONTO, (CP)—Appeals by William D. Denison and 13 associates of the C.C.F. party against dismissal of their members from the Toronto municipal election campaign were heard yesterday by the Ontario court of appeal.

The group had brought libel actions against Montague Alfred Sanderson of Reliable Exterminators, Ltd., and the Globe Printing Co. Ltd., and Dr. W. G. McCullagh. The case was an outcome of the Toronto municipal election campaign of 1945.

Opposition was voiced by Senator William D. Denison of North Sydney in the upper house returning before July 30. He said he was no longer interested in this proposal.

The court also dismissed an appeal by the Globe

Printing company and Mr. McCullagh, who had sought a writ of habeas corpus to restrain the court from proceeding with a trial of their members.

The court also dismissed an appeal by the C.C.F. members that they wished these men had received something considerably better than sergeant pay.

Don't Write Off the A-Bomb

Because last Sunday's atomic explosion in the air over Bikini lagoon did not sink all seventy-three ships assembled there, some folk seem inclined to dismiss the atomic bomb. They would be ill-advised to write off the atomic bomb thus summarily.

Do you recall when the first thousand-plane attack was launched against a German city? What could we have expected? After a hundred or a thousand atomic bombs had been released over Bikini last Sunday?

The target ships there had no human being on board. What would have happened had each been fully crewed?

In spite of Hiroshima, Nagasaki and Bikini, we still do not know a great deal about the "radiation" effects these atomic explosions produce.

A few grains of fissionable material were brought together when a piece of apparatus slipped in the Los Alamos atomic laboratory in New Mexico. They were so few and so little that they were scattered instantly by the heat. In the hand of the man was Dr. Louis Bolotin, who died later of internal burns caused by radiation, but his prompt action saved many lives.

As it was, others in the room felt heat and received an intense "blue glow."

"The blue glow resulted from the ionization of air particles by radiation emanating from the fissionable material," said an official U.S. Army communiqué.

No explosion in the sense that there were no mechanical effects, no debris, no noise."

Surely no further demonstrations or tests are necessary to convince all men that the atomic bomb should be, and must be, outlawed.

India and South Africa

The decision of the government of the United Nations to appeal to the British Nations against the racial mistreatment of Indians in South Africa is something of a milestone in the history of the British Commonwealth.

This is the first time that one of the self-governing dominions like India is making all intents and purposes in the first class has complained to an international authority over the actions of another dominion.

In the old days of centralized control such disputes--which were usually of a minor nature--could be settled within the empire, either by arbitration, by appeal to the Privy Council or by the intervention of the British government. Now, however, the dominions have acquired such complete independence of action that more serious clashes cannot be avoided, and the services of the United Nations have become necessary.

The dispute between India and South Africa is indeed long-standing and bitter. The South African whites, who draw the color line as rigidly as do the people of the southern States, insist on treating the Hindu settlers as second-class citizens, while public opinion in India is equally insistent that they be given the same rights as other groups.

The dispute has been agitated for more than fifteen years, and it was in this controversy that Mahandas K. Gandhi first rose to fame--but the grievances of the Indians are still unredressed.

It remains to be seen whether the United Nations can offer any solution.

Peace Link With Peace River

The opening of regular commercial telephone service, through Grande Prairie, between the Peace River country and Edmonton is development of prime importance.

At President Searcy of the Berton Men's Club said in a brief telephone chat with the editors of the Edmonton daily newspapers, it's a great thing to be able to pick up a receiver and talk with the outside world as easily as with a neighbor a few doors down the street.

The telephone stands supreme as the ideal means of communication, whether between statesmen and world capitals, businessmen in Edmonton and the Peace River country, or home and office.

Indirectly, we must thank the Japanese for this latest extension. The lines were strung during the war, and the Alberta government, despite having been able to lease one from the R.C.A.F.

Civilian Honors List

The Dominion Day honors list was the first comprehensive effort to give recognition to that great multitude of civilians who helped in Canada's war effort. The government's policy has been to postpone such recognition until after the end of hostilities.

Some of the awards were for special individual services. A great many, however, went to men and women who were officers of large wartime auxiliary organizations, or of business, labor and agricultural groups which contributed to the war effort.

The recipients of these latest honors would be the first to admit that they were intended, not only as a gesture of recognition to the individuals named, but also as a tribute to the whole membership of their respective organizations. It is the patriotic work in which due honor can be paid to the scores of thousands of anonymous men and women who gave so generously of their time and effort to help in the war.

Prize winners will join in congratulating the Edmonton men and women honored in the Dominion Day lists.

Who Owns 18 Year Olds?

Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan seems to feel that the Liberals are trespassing on his preserves.

Speaking in the House constituency by election last week, he criticized his opponents for appealing for the votes of 16-year-olds, who have just been given the franchise.

In the house, the premier protested indignantly, "they opposed the bill we brought in to give them the vote." The inference apparently is that since the C.C.F. gave the young people the vote, it is automatically entitled to its support. And otherwise, boozing the bobby-sox brigade is just an interloper.

This is an interesting theory, but we are afraid Mr. Douglas is due for some disillusionment. In the past many governments have extended the franchise in an effort to consolidate their power, but the experiment has seldom worked. Disraeli established manhood suffrage in Britain, but in Queen Victoria's time, he didn't prevent his being defeated at the next election. Lloyd George gave British women the vote in 1918, but that failed to halt the progressive decline of the Liberal party.

Here in Canada, the Borden government extended the franchise to women in 1917, but the Conservatives have certainly not received any special support from the ladies.

In a democracy, governments may give the vote, but they cannot say how it will be exercised.

'30' For 'Le Jour'

The closing down of the well-known Montreal weekly, "Le Jour," is a real loss to Canada. It removes a strong force for tolerance, enlightenment and racial harmony in the province of Quebec.

"Le Jour" was not the only French newspaper to appeal for understanding and friendship between the two great races of Canada. It was, however, the only one which really fought the forces making for strife and disunion.

Under the leadership of its gifted editor, Jean Charles Harvey, and his friend Senator Brockway, it fought a gallant war against the extreme nationalists, the anti-British zealots, and the advocates of an independent "Laurentian Republic" and all the others who sought to disrupt Canada.

To all these, "Le Jour" was a continual scourge. It exposed their schemes, and covered their leaders with ridicule. To its efforts is due, in no small measure, the fact that, even in the darkest of the years, the influence of these extremists was kept within bounds.

The paper's contribution, however, went far beyond the field of partisan politics. In its efforts to bring the two races together, it was a powerful advocate of the British connection, and of internationalism generally. Even more significant, perhaps, was its fight for more centralized education and for centralized government control of the present complicated and ineffectual church control.

As crusader for enlightenment, its place will be hard to fill. Its crusading spirit, however, is suspended. Mr. Harvey gives the old, familiar reason--"lack of financial support." That is a sad commentary on Quebec in general and Montreal in particular.

Now that that Soviet scientist claims he can put off death for 150 years, how about taking a swing at taxes?

There may have been colder June, but scarcely a wetter one.

The Third Column

A DIVIDED EUROPE

By Samuel Lubell

It should be clear to everyone by this time that a long and bitter struggle for peace lies ahead—one which may last for years.

Each day's sessions of the recent conference of foreign ministers brought fresh evidence of how clumsy and unworkable a piece of machinery the Council of Foreign Ministers is, and made observers here all the more convinced that the new methods in the peace-making process is needed. What has been particularly depressing is that the ministers can have expended so much of their time and energy on such limited objectives as those for which they were aiming.

Assuming that the treaties over which the ministers have been bickering since last September were right, the question might be asked: How much change in the basic situation can be brought about by one American's opposition to that question was, "very little."

The occupying troops would be withdrawn from the countries affected. This would permit something more closely approaching normal political and economic life in those countries, in itself a worthwhile development.

Spurred by the recent Allied experts expect the Soviets to relax their political and economic domination of Hungary, Rumania, and Bulgaria, regardless of whether the treaties contain a clause pertaining to freedom of the press. Austria, even with a peace treaty, certain to remain a political and economic battleground between Russia and the west, while Italy will continue within the "sphere of western influence."

As far as the really decisive issue of peacetime is concerned--whether the so-called Iron Curtain is to be lifted--the treaties the ministers are seeking cannot be expected to do the division of Europe that already prevails. What made Trieste the No. 1 issue of the conference was precisely the fact that it is the one place where the influence of the eastern and western spheres overlap and ensure that the others must yield tangible ground there.

The conclusion seems inescapable that whatever legal or territorial treaties are settled upon here, Europe will remain divided in two, and the economic, political and ideological battles between the Soviets and the Western World will rage on.

The question disturbing observers here is if it takes so long to accomplish so little. The minimum that is required, now long will be required to settle the issues involving the fundamental concessions, unless an entirely new approach to peace-making is found?

From the Ottawa Journal

A return table in the Commons tells us that as of March 31 there were 196,961 Canadians receiving old age pensions and 6,924 persons were being paid the blind pension of their country.

In the House Mr. Brooke Claxton reported that in May payments under family allowances were made to 1,420,233 families to the amount of $19,924,614 in respect of 3,937,762 children.

This means that the taxpayers as a body are contributing to the maintenance of 3,534,669 Canadians--out of military pensions, of course--or more than one in four.

This situation is characteristic of the modern style of paternalism in government. It is an interesting development, whether a healthy one only the future can tell.

COMPARISONS

From the Ottawa Journal

A strange thing, this human nature, capable of great nobility, also capable of conduct that would shame a hog, a carrion-beetle, or a shark.

BIBLE MESSAGE

But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoe'er I have said unto you. (John 14:16.)

Confiscation

It is reported that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has culminated weeks of discussion by sending curt and peremptory letters to the independent privately-owned radio stations CKY at Winnipeg, CFCN at Calgary and CKVR at Toronto informing them that their wave lengths would be taken over by the CBC.

These stations are offered substitute wave lengths. But it will take years to establish the will of the listeners dial. The whole broadcast public domain, fiscation and an affront to the democratic way of Canadian life. It is in accord with that monopolistic attitude of the CBC which has already shown itself in an series of obstinate refusals to grant a commercial license to CKUA in Edmonton.

The entire relationship of the CBC to private stations needs to be drastically revised. These stations exist only to supply advertising revenue. They receive no government subsidy and no part of the radio license fees.

If a private station is a CBC network outlet, it receives no compensation for carrying the network programming. It does, however, get paid for network commercials, the price being arbitrarily set by the CBC. But the station gets only half this fixed price because the CBC collects a 50 percent commission on all network fees.

Thus, with only eleven standard broadcast stations of its own, the CBC has entered the commercial field, producing and selling commercial programs and collecting commission from private stations elsewhere.

The public is beginning to enquire very urgently whether this system is fair, whether the CBC is justified in collecting license fees from radio owners to set up a competitive system in which it takes the rules and whether private stations should not be controlled by some more impartial and disinterested governing organization.

That's A Lot Of Meat

In six weeks people across Canada turned in 124,000 valid meat coupons to local ration boards. As the result of this personal self-denial 500,000 pounds of canned meat has gone to the hungry to the hunger zones in Europe or Asia.

There is nothing spectacular about this kind of benevolence, and no glory is to be gained from it. The person who surrenders a coupon will not win distinction or do so. Perhaps not even an official in the ration office will ever know of the incident.

But somehow there is a feeling that service of this type cannot count for nothing in the shaping of human relations and national attitudes. Somewhere in Europe, China, or Asia a lot of people are going to know that they are getting more meat than they were promised or dared to hope for. They will, it is to be supposed, know that it is a good cause, and something over and above what the Dominion undertook to supply.

It would be worth while to make sure through official channels that this information does not cross the ocean and profit from the generosity of people in this country. Not in a boasting way at all, but just to let them know that Canadians are a friendly folk. The day may come when it will stand us in good stead to have a half a million of so families in Europe or the Orient who feel personally grateful to us for a bit of extra help given them in time of dire need.

Guaranteed Wages

At Washington study is being made of a program to preserve industrial peace in the United States. The study is in the preliminary stages and what will come of it is unknown. But the purpose is sound. The aim is to relieve wage-earners of the dread of unemployment, by guaranteeing them wages.

This is tackling insecurity at its root point and in the right way. The bugbear of the wage-earner, and the salary-earner, is that he may some time find himself without job and therefore without income. That is the primary factor in creating unrest, disturbing industry, throwing production cost schedules out of balance. If that dread can be lifted from the minds of employees, undoubtedly the stability of industrial stability to a degree not otherwise possible.

And who is to say that wages cannot be guaranteed, in Canada, in the United States, in any country? No skilled or unskilled attitude is to overlook the important fact. When hard times sweep across the land, people are not left to starve. One way or another they are provided with food, clothing, shelter.

If the public authorities can and does meet the situation in that way, why cannot it do so by paying wages in return for work on the roads or in some branch of the public service? To say this could not be done in Canada is sheer nonsense.

Press Freedom and Law

By Dorothy Thompson

A number of topics in the news of the last few days are interrelated.

Leo Hochstetter, American member of the UNRA mission to Japan, has been ordered sent back to Washington by the Russian chief of the mission because of disagreement over the censorship.

Reuben Markham, correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor in Rumania, has been expelled under orders of the Russian commander.

Representatives in Congress have warned that they will seek funds for the bill appropriating $100,000,000 for the second installment of UNRA relief, to bar American funds from countries where United States newsmen are denied access to facts about distribution.

Markham's expulsion is damaging to confidence in Russian common sense. It is a basic policy of The Christian Science Monitor always to emphasize the favorable and constructive elements in any situation.

But the most important article in the reports of Mr. Markham has been obvious and notable. Mr. Markham has been meticulous about details, figures, and places. Wherever he could find something good to report or wherever he could truthfully correct hearsay damage to the Russians, he has gone out of his way to do so.

Mr. Hochstetter claims as a result of censorship the Jugoslav material is brought free to the country, that the Jugoslav government is responsible for its distribution.

But one should question the morality of the censoring measures proposed. The object of UNRA relief is to prevent starvation, especially of children. If a people suffer helplessly under a tyrannical government or army of occupation, it is no alleviation of the situation to decree that they shall also starve.

RADIO SPEECH

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

Agitation will not cease nor will the CBC be allowed to rest until speech on the radio is free. That is in the press. Nor will this be because of any organized, malicious agitation but simply because freedom of speech is a fundamental right of democracy, denial of which is never accepted by the public without protest.

Easily the worst disaster the public men and press of the Dominion can render their country at this distressful juncture in international affairs is to talk as if another war is likely to burst upon the world and ravage Canada as the Second World War ravaged Poland.

The Road Ahead

By J. Harper Prowse, M.L.A.

The evidence seems to indicate clearly that it was Hitler's dream of world domination, and the German people's willingness to wage unprovoked war on their neighbors, that started World War II. It is natural, then, that victims of that aggression should cry for vengeance and that all who love justice and peace should demand steps to prevent a recurrence.

We have good judges of French politics think Georges Bidault may prove to be the best possible selection in the circumstances.

Today in Europe

By Randolph Churchill

PARIS -- The speed with which France's new Premier-President Georges Bidault, formed his government has already raised his prestige. To have negotiated an agreement with both Socialist and Communist parties while playing an active role in the Foreign Ministers' conference was no small achievement. On a Sunday, profiting by the fact that the Communists were out, he managed to produce in 24 hours, a complete government, with an allocation of posts acceptable to all three major parties.

Bidault possessed qualities of statesmanship and compromise which well qualify him to lead France's political life.

As editor of the newspaper L'Aube, he never ceased to insist upon the growing menace of Germany and to demand that the Germans be forced to defend themselves. He favored defection and appeasement. Those days, L'Aube was the unimportant organ of an unimportant political party, the Christian Democrats. Today it is one of the most influential papers in Paris, and the Christians the most powerful political party.

Four long years of Nazi occupation saw the rise of a variety of resistance movements. Some outside the country was plain that, unless these could be brought together into one organization, there would be danger of civil war. To achieve this coordination, the National Council of Resistance was formed.

This contained representatives of all anti-German parties. Its first president was a perfect called Moulin who died of German torture, and Bidault was elected to succeed him. A notable fact was that he was acceptable to the Communists.

Immediately after the liberation, De Gaulle chose Bidault as Foreign Minister in the Provisional Government. De Gaulle had very definite ideas on foreign affairs. Bidault's role was affairs of state. His role was not good enough.

Many good judges of French politics think Georges Bidault may prove to be the best possible selection in the circumstances.

Germany can prevent the Germans from making tanks and guns and planes. We can prevent them from making atomic bombs. Perhaps we can stop them developing germ cultures. But this is not an insurance against future war, which might yet be conceived. Where there is a will there is a way--the only way to prevent the German people from waging war again is to eradicate their will to war.

We have a duty for Germany or the German people. They do not deserve any. But we cannot punish sharing that punishment--and surely the world has suffered enough. Therefore we believe that as we cannot punish them, we must change them to change them. We must show them that peace is preferable to war. That justice is better than hate. That justice and better force. We must destroy them or help them get back on the right path. Any other course will lead to disaster. We must leave vengeance to the Almighty.

All-Star Juniors Edge Out Arrows, 4-3, in Benefit Baseball Game

9th Inning Squeeze Play Tilts Scales for Winners

Cubs and Eskimos Clash Tonight

Ralph Morgan's Cubs, battling to launch what they hope will put them back in contention in the City Senior Baseball League race, tackle second place Eskimos at Renfrew park Thursday.

The game is listed for 6:45 p.m. At the moment plight of the Cubs still hangs over the team, creating considerable anxiety among the league brass. In the inner councils it's agreed that lack of pitching has been the chief reason for the team's poor showing. A new addition has been made to the Cubs' mound corps but it is hoped additions will be made to the Cubs' mound corps before the season ends.

Anyway, the junior Beams hope to slip one over on Bert Culver's Eskimos tonight.

To Select Team Willingdon Golf

Alberta Amateur Golf tournament is scheduled for July 10 and 11. Today, when the showmakers head out over the Highlands club layout, they'll be battling for more than provincial honors.

At stake also will be the places on the four-round team that represents Alberta when the Canadian cup matches get underway at Mayfair Golf and Country Club, July 29.

Committee shouldered with the job of selecting the Alberta team consists of A. E. A. president, John Mathew; M. J. Morris, president of the Alberta Golf association; P. L. (Ingy) Cameron, Mayfair manager; and G. R. Borland, prominent Calgary golfer.

How Will They Choose?

It hasn't been indicated just what method will be used in finally selecting the members of the Alberta Willingdon squad, but it almost certainly the winner of the Alberta amateur golf tournament will be automatic choice. Medalist in the 18-hole qualifying round will also merit considerable consideration.

Those with ambitions to hook up with Ontario, British Columbia and other provinces will be stroking their toes with glee in their hearts, as next Tuesday.

Alberta County Districts' tournament precedes the amateur proper by two days, being billed to start Tuesday.

Entries for the amateur should be sent to Herb Bliss, Edmonton Motors, Edmonton, Alberta, Monday, at 6:30 p.m.

With Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees preceding them in the American league standings, the transplanted winners of the 1945 world series, look like a poor bet to repeat their success in 1946.

South Africa's Bobby Locke Sets Pace in British Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, (CP)—South Africa's Bobby Locke, justifying his build-up as the hottest man in current British golf, blasted par by four strokes Wednesday with a score of 70, the first round of the British open championship. But the rest of the field was right behind him.

On the rock back of Locke were Britain's veteran, Henry Cotton, trying for his third open crown, and Australia's Alf Bailey, who led the qualifiers.

Another stroke back with 71's were Sam Snead, Johnny Bulla and Joe Kirkwood, three Americans pro.

Outside this small circle stood the fourth American pro, Lawson

Little, who three-putted his way to a five-over-par 78, and Dan Rees, British favorite.

Defending champion Dick Button scored well enough with a 74 to wipe away a bit of the chagrin over his defeat.

Locke showed that local golf bookies were as canny as the pros supposed to be when they quoted him now as 8-1 for pre-tournament bets.

His four-under-par was a golfer's dream come true when his drive landed in a fairway trap, but even there he had a lie that let him fire his second shot to the green. The long drive of his partner, Kirkwood, usually were a bust even off the tee.

Pails in a bylined dispatch from the Sydney (N.S.) Telegraph, wrote:

"From what I've seen of the few recent tournaments, we have one big fight on our hands."

Sport Gossip At a Glance

There are those fans who still place a high premium on the art of style, and those who believe all that is strength. And when it comes to City Senior Baseball league circles in the stolen base department, Art Flores is waging the duel of quick getaways and flashing spikes.

Art Flores is the duelist and Eskimos' Tom Matthews the champion. The margin isn't too great, not when you consider that Flores got seven runs to Matthews' six in the season game.

The margin isn't too great, not when you consider that Flores got seven runs to Matthews' six in the season game. He might break out in a rash again at any time.

For a long while the 23-year-old Ornstein has been something of a master craftsman on the runway. As the season has developed, he has thrown out on an attempted steal but once in seven years.

Now the Eskimos' Tom Matthews did the trick last summer, on a muddy Renfrew park track, Ornstein's career record in stolen bases in the latest department during the 1944 season. Not a catcher managed to flag him down. It's been thrust ever since the young man of a few thousand words graduated from the juvenile ranks.

The night he suffered the six straight, Ornstein Cuthbertson, by way of gilding the overall effort, And when he came around again, he was the star of the show, his teammates were standing in front of the dugout shouting, "Take a lesson, Tom."

The way it looks now the Ornstein-Flores duel might continue to highlight the new baseball season, to lucky program holders. In this day of shortages such procedure is almost as good as the moon.

No Price Raising

However Promoter Miller and his cast have already declared themselfs ready to meet the price of midday will be forthcoming.

There will be no hundred-dollar grandstand prices will prevail.

Can't you just imagine the fun of watching Renfrew park Announcer Gordon Williamson starts reading out those lucky program numbers.

And you'll be there of course, just in case.

WITH 36 ANIMAL diseases transmissible to man, many of them serious and with a considerable number contractible through diet, the work of the veterinary surgeon is a tide through preventive measures determined to an inestimable extent the health optimum of the people.

"The incidence of disease transmissible to humans from animals is in direct relation to the veterinary services available," said Dr. MacNabb.

He mentioned specifically many diseases stemming from poultry, cattle and swine. There are 131 varieties of parathyroid, 40 of which have been isolated from poultry. Others include leptospirosis, equine anemia, anthrax, tularemia, fever, rabies, tuberculosis, swine erysipelas and trichinosis.

IT WAS NOT generally known that in most of the diseases contracted by man, animal diseases are causative factors and many have had a prominent part in discovering

Dr. MacNabb served overseas in the First Great War, and as laboratory officer in the Canadian Veterinary Corps in the Second World War held the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He is also a member of the Senate of the University of Toronto.

Dr. MacNabb is a member of the provincial government and working together of the medical and veterinary sciences and stated that no public health plan could be made without a veterinarian as a food investigator, as a guardian of community sanitation where these factors are affected from animal sources.

EARLY IN HIS address he traced the evolution of the veterinary profession and its effect upon humans and referred his listeners to the Gospel contained in Leviticus, chapters 13 and 14, which said, "If any man at any time the Jews were cognizant of the need for isolation and hygiene.

In closing he paid tribute to veterinary scientists who had made contributions to the development of vaccines, one especially in the animal-contracted disease of sleeping sickness.

Dorothy Dix Says:

TIRD HUSBANDS

Dear Miss Dix: I am married and have children both very young. My husband says that it isn't his job to take care of them. He says that his job is to earn the money to support the family. He works six days a week. Don't you think he should take care of the children for at least an hour every day. He says he is tired after his day's work. Well, I'm tired too. He comes home from work, runs to eat, eats, sleeps, goes to bed. What else can he do?

ANSWER: The 50-50 marriage is the ideal marriage proposal, but I doubt if, in reality, it ever exists.

THIS UNFAIR, but in the cases where a family must live on a limited income I do not see how it can be prevented. It is not true that the old proverb, Time and absence would have killed his affection for you and he would have forsaken you, as tens of thousands of other married men have done to within a short distance of Innisfail, and construction work happy until I find out what the wife with perhaps two or three little children is in a thousand begin as soon as the river subsides.

A Desperate Fiancee.

Answer: The only thing for you to do is just accept the fact that he has fallen out of love with you and doesn't intend to marry you, and that he is too cowardly to tell you the truth.

AND GO DOWN on your knees and thank God that you had the sense not to marry him when he was starting off. Wait for him to fall in love again, and then you will be able to get him to marry you.

HARD SURFACING of the highway south from Red Deer has extended to within a short distance of Innisfail, and construction work is ready to begin work on the Calgary-Cochrane 29-mile stretch, as well as gravel surfacing from Red Deer bridge is ready to begin as soon as the river subsides.

Gravel surfacing of the High

Prairie-Grande Prairie highway

will be completed soon, making travel comfortable through to Peace River by way of the "trunkline."

THE SOUTH equipment is ready to begin work on the Calgary-to-Olida 10-mile stretch, as well as gravel surfacing from

Calgary to High River and Carstairs to Olds.

We had more engineers and builders, so we could step the work up even faster," Mr. Fallow commented.

No Trace Found Of Missing Plane

No trace had been found Thursday of the missing Piper Cub plane piloted by Jack Barber of Laramie, N.Y., that disappeared north of Fort McMurray.

THE SEARCH FOR the missing civilian aircraft, one of two being ferried to Anchorage, Alaska, from the United States, was continuing with both RCAF and USAAF planes participating.

The plane disappeared after leaving Fort McMurray. It was believed the pilot was attempting a shortcut to his next landing field instead of following the Alaska Highway.

Four Persons Hurt In Traffic Crash

Four persons were injured Thursday morning when a delivery truck collided with a red and white street car at the intersection of 102nd Street and 103rd Avenue. The injuries were all sustained by passengers in the truck.

THE INJURED ARE Alex Pachal, 22, of 102nd Street, who suffered lacerations to the head; Mrs. A. Haluzak, 1236 67 street knee injuries; Mrs. J. Blatwick, 1232 66 street, lacerations to the head; and Miss Blatwick, 16, injuries to the shoulder. The driver of the truck was seriously injured.

Donald Mann, 11215 81 street, who was driving the west-bound street car, said that he had stopped to pick up passengers on the north-east corner of the intersection and started to move forward again and was just well clear of the intersection when he felt the impact.

THE TRUCK HIT the street car on the side just behind the steps to the entrance. The report said the truck did not stop at the stop sign at the intersection. However, no charges have been laid because the police have not been able to interview the trucker yet.

The front end of the delivery truck was badly damaged while the street car suffered little damage. The two upstream lanes would be south bound, the two down-stream lanes north bound and the city buses would use the inner lane next to the CPR tracks in each case. There would be provided on the upper deck on each side, substantial steel curbs to protect the roadways lighting which will make it perfectly safe for operation.

Mr. Haddow pointed out that in 1939 in the south roadway turnouts were revised to accommodate a southerly view from the bridge. This would now be completed. A widened approach was made to the grade abutment and 88 feet would be provided to park to accommodate three lines of south bound roadway traffic, the right-of-way for which has already been provided, and the bicycle approach.

NORTH BOUND traffic would utilize the existing paving, slightly revised as necessary, from 88 feet upstream and at the north end the upper level roadway approaches would be widened to accommodate the extra lanes. This in turn would necessitate aquiring two narrow strips of right-of-way from the provincial government.

Pedestrian traffic would continue to use the down-stream walk and bicyclists would use the up-stream walk. On the bridge, and approaches, eliminating the dangerous condition existing at the south end, will be easily regulated by traffic lights.

THE GENERAL operation of the bridge will be simplified by the proposed revision, Haddow stated, particularly at 88 avenue where there will be three lanes of south bound and three north bound traffic with cross-traffic from 88th Street, Saskatchewan Drive, which can be easily regulated by traffic lights.

Visiting commercial firms with products for export and conferences with provincial government officials will follow.

ANSWER: The planet Venus.

A man in a suit and tie stands in a doorway, looking at the other man. He says, "WHERE DO YOU THINK HE GETS ALL THE MONEY HE'S BEEN SPENDING? HE'S BEEN PAUNTING THE THINGS HE SWIPED!" The man in the suit replies, "WHEN WE FINALLY GRAB HIM, HE'LL TELL US WHERE THE STUFF IS AND WE GET IT ALL BACK..." The man in the suit then says, "THAT'S ALL I WANT TO KNOW!"

A black and white comic strip panel. On the left, a man in a suit and hat, identified as Mr. Glorias, sits at a desk covered with papers. He is looking towards another man, Chicker, who is wearing a fedora and a suit. Chicker is holding a small object, possibly a key or a small tool. A speech bubble from Mr. Glorias says, "MR. GLORIAS, I'M WALLET OF WALLET & BOBBLE. THERE'S A SITUATION I THINK YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT." Chicker replies with a speech bubble, "YES, WALLET?" In the center, Chicker continues, "YOUR PURCHASING AGENT CHICKER HAS BEEN DEALING WITH MY PARTNER BOBBLE IN WAVES. I KNEW NOTHING ABOUT IT." Mr. Glorias responds, "FOR INSTANCE—" On the right, Chicker concludes, "CHICKER GAVE OUR FIRM THE REPAIRS AND REFINISHING OF THE GLORIANA HOTEL FURNISHINGS ON CONDITION OF A 20 PERCENT KICKBACK TO HIM." Mr. Glorias asks, "YOU INTEREST ME, SO ON."
